

$75,000 FROM THE STATE TO HELP WELCOME DEWEY.

In Response to the Governor's Message the Bill Will Pass To-day—Surgeon on the Olympia Says the Admiral Is Not Ill—Dimes for the Loving Cup Roll in Steadily.

Three Youthful Patriots Who "Love Dewey."

The three little Dunham sisters are brimful of enthusiasm for the hero of Manila Bay, and they show their enthusiasm in action.

They sent three shining dimes and promise more, and they set an example that must prove contagious to other little boys and girls.

The letter accompanying their dimes is even brighter than the dimes they forward. Here it is in full:

Dear Journal—We are three little girls, who love Dewey—for mamma has read all about him to us—and we do so want a little share in his loving cup. We sent you three bright silver dimes that we have saved up since we first heard about your beautiful cup, and we have saved a Dewey Cup Circle.

Every little girl takes a paper and gets every one she knows to put their names on it and give a dime. As soon as we have all the dimes we are going to send them to you, but we could not wait any longer, so we send ours now—and our pictures—and three great big cheers from three little Dewey girls.

We are only very little girls, but we can love him and help make his cup.

We are eleven, six and seven years old, dear Journal, but that's old enough to help a little.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 24.—A bill appropriating $75,000 for the celebration of Admiral Dewey's return was reported to the Senate by the Finance Committee early this afternoon. The meeting of the committee and the framing and reporting of the bill followed swiftly on the heels of the following message from Governor Roosevelt recommending such action:

I call to your attention the desirability of making an appropriation to provide for the proper appropriation of the return of Admiral Dewey, an American whom all Americans worthy of the name delight to honor, the man who at the close of the nineteenth century has added fresh renown to the flag that has already so often been borne to glorious triumph in the land and on the sea.

The thunder of Dewey's guns in Manila Bay raised in a moment's time the prestige of American arms throughout the world, and added a new honor to American citizenship at home and abroad; and his services throughout the trying months that followed, though less brilliant, were hardly less useful to his country.

It is fitting that we should show in appropriate form our high regard for his great services, and for every officer and sailor of his fleet; that we should testify our appreciation of the debt under which this country lies to him and to them, and indeed to all their comrades in our forces afloat and ashore.

The first idea of the Governor was that only the militia in the three New York regiments should take part in the celebration. By thus limiting the number of the citizen soldiers, $25,000, he thought, would be enough to cover all expenses, including the building of the necessary stands, etc.

Finally, after a conference with the Adjutant-General, he concluded to go no further in the matter than merely to recommend an appropriation, leaving the amount to the Legislature. When $75,000 was suggested, he readily agreed. Militia organizations throughout the State expressed a decided inclination to take part in the celebration. So the bars were let down and the appropriation was made big enough to permit any militia company in the State that desires to take part in the celebration to do so.

In the Assembly the message was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. The bill will surely be passed by both houses to-morrow, with no other interruption than a few patriotic speeches, which on the order of third reading in the Senate.

DEWEY'S SURGEON SAYS ADMIRAL IS NOT SICK.

No One Would Think Him Ill Who Saw Him Aroused on the Quarterdeck.

Washington, May 24.—Surgeon J. E. Bago, of Admiral Dewey's flagship, the Olympia, who has arrived here on leave, said to-day:

"Admiral Dewey is in no sense a sick man, but is as well as any man could be after spending a year in the tropics. I was on the Olympia at the time he came aboard, and from that time to the present I do not believe there has been any appreciable change in his appearance, weight or general condition."

"Any one who thinks he is a physical wreck should hear the Admiral on the quarterdeck."

Washington, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

Plan a $100,000 Dewey Monument.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

San Francisco, May 24.—The promoters of the movement to commemorate the deeds of the American Navy, especially the victory of Admiral Dewey, have set to work with a will and are confident that the public will soon be in receipt of the fund, and the executive committee is composed of wealthy and prominent citizens.

HADLEY LEADS FOR VANDERBILTS FAVOR HIM, AND THEIR INFLUENCE IS RELIED UPON.

Vanderbilts Favor Him, and Their Influence Is Relied Upon.

CLERICS ARE OPPOSED.

They Will Attempt to Elect Either Professor Perrin, Vincent or Wright.

New Haven, Conn., May 24.—A new president for Yale University will be selected at the regular May meeting of the corporation to-morrow.

The candidacy of Professor Arthur T. Hadley, whose chances of election have appeared brightest of any one in the field, are not so strong to-night.

Of the corporation members Senator Dewey, representing the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, and Thomas C. Bennett, representing the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, are said to warmly favor the election of Professor Hadley.

From these two sources Yale has received millions, and it is to be expected that they should receive weight in the discussion of a new president.

The clerical members of the corporation are divided in their preferences for Professor George Vincent, of the University of Chicago; Professor Bernadotte Perrin, of the Yale Faculty, and Dean Henry P. Wright, of the academic department.

On the eve of the election the situation is that Professor Hadley has a slight lead, with a very stubborn minority opposition.

The task of selecting the new president rests in the hands of the Rev. Burdett Hart, of New Haven; Joseph Backus, of Farmington; Frederick J. Kingsbury, of Waterbury; the Rev. George Leon Walker, of Hartford; Judge Henry E. Howland, of New York; the Rev. Charles Ray Palmer, of New Haven; Senator Dewey; the Rev. Edwin P. Parker, of Hartford; the Rev. August P. Heard, of Hartford; the Rev. Joseph Twichell, of Hartford; Buchanan Whitcomb, of New York; Thomas G. Bennett, New Haven, and the Rev. James Cooper, New Britain.

The Rev. Mr. Walker is critically ill at his home because of a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Backus is in feeble health and may not attend the meeting. Mr. Kingsbury is ill, but expects to be present.

President Dwight will be allowed to vote on his successor. The Governor and Lieutenant-Governor are fellows of the corporation, but are not expected. The vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Mason's death has not been filled.

A member of the corporation said to-night that a strong effort will be made to elect one of the leading candidates.

Unless Professor Hadley wins on an early ballot it is said that a quick turn will be made to either Professor Vincent or Professor Perrin.

SHERMAN AND HOPKINS CONFER ON SPEAKERSHIP.

The New York Candidate for Reed's Shoes Says His Successor Will Obey, Not Boss, the House.

Washington, May 24.—Representative Sherman, of New York, candidate for Speaker of the House, arrived in Washington this morning. Representative Hopkins, of Illinois, is also here, and the two leading candidates for Mr. Reed's place had a conference to-day, at which the Speakership prospects of each were discussed.

Mr. Sherman claims pledged supporters in twelve State delegations. Very shrewdly he advances the proposition that the next Speaker will be the creature of the House, not its dictator, and that what the majority wants will be done. He says:

"I am not a dictator, and I do not intend to be. I will be the creature of the House, and I will do what the majority wants. I will be the creature of the House, and I will do what the majority wants."

Mr. Sherman asserts positively that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

Mr. Sherman's position is that he is ready for the caucus, and that it could be held now he would be the nominee. Representative Henderson, of Iowa, will be here to-morrow or on Friday, and the three rivals will begin a desperate struggle for the Speakership.

DIED RATHER THAN CHANGE DOCTORS.

Miss Butot Fled from Home When Another Took Her Mother's Place.

FOUND DYING BY THE ROAD

Strangers Soothed Her Last Hours, Then Notified Her Rich Father.

She lay in the gloom of tangled shrubbery just off New Haven avenue, Derby, Conn. John A. Fellows, farmer, found her there on the morning of Wednesday, last week, and marvelled at her air of refinement and the tragic look on her white face.

He caused her to be carried into the farmhouse and sent for a doctor, who said she was dying of consumption. In all Derby there was nobody who had even seen her before. When she thoroughly understood that what the doctor said was true, she told her story.

CHAPTER I.

When Philomena Butot left her home in Bristol, Conn., to be educated at St. Hyacinthe's Convent, Montreal, she was a mere slip of a dark-eyed girl.

She was very shy, and it tormented her to be obliged to speak in the presence of strangers. This had sometimes made her father angry, but her mother was indulgent. Mother and daughter understood each other perfectly. Their parting was an agony to both.

Mrs. Butot was an invalid. She enjoyed the best possible care, because her husband was one of the richest men in Bristol, but her strength failed, and the absence of her daughter robbed her of the buoyancy that had helped her to fight off her malady.

After a year or two at the convent, Philomena was called back to Bristol. For the first time she kissed her mother's face, and it was very cold. She saw the coffin lowered into the grave, and then journeyed back to the convent.

CHAPTER II.

Miss Butot was graduated three years ago, at the age of seventeen. There was settled melancholy in her face, but underneath this lurked an expression of great sweetness. Her ruling emotion was still love of her mother, even though that mother was dead.

She returned home filled with the thought of one duty—to try to console her father for his bereavement.

She found her father with anything but the appearance of a bereaved man. He had married again. A strange woman ruled where Philomena's mother had been queen.

The house was changed. The atmosphere was different. Treasured mementos had been put out of sight.

Her father seemed glad to see her. Her stepmother was kind. But the convent girl could not bear to stay in the house that had once been sacred by reason of her mother's presence. She went away.

CHAPTER III.

Philomena Butot had inherited from her mother a predisposition to consumption. Carelessness completed the preparation for the fate that was to overtake her.

For a year her whereabouts was known to her father, though it was supposed that their relations should be cordial. After that she drifted out of sight. She had many accomplishments, and made shift to live by teaching, and by doing the needlework.

She suffered hardships. When Fellows found her, though it was supposed that all the way from New Haven, feeling fatigued, she had turned aside from the road to sleep all night in the woods.

On Tuesday morning she died, with a miniature of her mother pressed to her lips. Yesterday her father reached Derby from his business trip, accompanied by Health Officer Louis D. Labonte, of Derby, who had gone to find him.

He was greatly distressed, and seemed to have it in his mind that Philomena's stepmother had not been unkind to her.

"She and her mother were like twin sisters," he said.

He took his daughter's body away to be buried in the family plot at New Hartford.

Kennedy

12 CORTLANDT ST.

Regular stocks are bigger and brighter than you can find anywhere else.

And then there are the bargains—

300 Pairs of Patent Leather, $2.19.

425 Pairs of Russel Lace, $2.19.

They are regular $3.50 quality. Wing Tip Oxfords, $4.98; Wing Tip Lace, $3.98. They're out of sight. Sold by custom bootmakers at $8.00.

An Expert's Discovery.

For several years a food expert experimented with a food, the aim being to produce one easy of digestion, that would contain more nutriment than meat.

Grape-Nuts is the result of this experimenting.

It is shown that one pound of Grape-Nuts contains more nutriment than ten pounds of beef, and that brain and body feel the effect of improved nourishment at once.

One cent a meal is the cost of Grape-Nuts.

Note! ORANGEINE

The Result of a Physician's Life-Long Experience, "Patient ORANGEINE." Combine AS NEVER BEFORE both Science of Medicine and Remedies, accurately proportioned to quickly restore Nerves, Stomach, Liver.

"Potent ORANGEINE."

Send for "Lofly Flashes of Gratitude," and "Diagrams for Manifestation." 11 Madison Ave., Chicago.

Dr. Lyon's PERFECT Tooth Powder

Used by people of refinement for over a quarter of a century.

LOVE OF THE DEAD DROVE HER TO DEATH.

Miss Butot Fled from Home When Another Took Her Mother's Place.

FOUND DYING BY THE ROAD

Strangers Soothed Her Last Hours, Then Notified Her Rich Father.

She lay in the gloom of tangled shrubbery just off New Haven avenue, Derby, Conn. John A. Fellows, farmer, found her there on the morning of Wednesday, last week, and marvelled at her air of refinement and the tragic look on her white face.

He caused her to be carried into the farmhouse and sent for a doctor, who said she was dying of consumption. In all Derby there was nobody who had even seen her before. When she thoroughly understood that what the doctor said was true, she told her story.

CHAPTER I.

When Philomena Butot left her home in Bristol, Conn., to be educated at St. Hyacinthe's Convent, Montreal, she was a mere slip of a dark-eyed girl.

She was very shy, and it tormented her to be obliged to speak in the presence of strangers. This had sometimes made her father angry, but her mother was indulgent. Mother and daughter understood each other perfectly. Their parting was an agony to both.

Mrs. Butot was an invalid. She enjoyed the best possible care, because her husband was one of the richest men in Bristol, but her strength failed, and the absence of her daughter robbed her of the buoyancy that had helped her to fight off her malady.

After a year or two at the convent, Philomena was called back to Bristol. For the first time she kissed her mother's face, and it was very cold. She saw the coffin lowered into the grave, and then journeyed back to the convent.

CHAPTER II.

Miss Butot was graduated three years ago, at the age of seventeen. There was settled melancholy in her face, but underneath this lurked an expression of great sweetness. Her ruling emotion was still love of her mother, even though that mother was dead.

She returned home filled with the thought of one duty—to try to console her father for his bereavement.

She found her father with anything but the appearance of a bereaved man. He had married again. A strange woman ruled where Philomena's mother had been queen.

The house was changed. The atmosphere was different. Treasured mementos had been put out of sight.

Her father seemed glad to see her. Her stepmother was kind. But the convent girl could not bear to stay in the house that had once been sacred by reason of her mother's presence. She went away.

CHAPTER III.

Philomena Butot had inherited from her mother a predisposition to consumption. Carelessness completed the preparation for the fate that was to overtake her.

For a year her whereabouts was known to her father, though it was supposed that their relations should be cordial. After that she drifted out of sight. She had many accomplishments, and made shift to live by teaching, and by doing the needlework.

She suffered hardships. When Fellows found her, though it was supposed that all the way from New Haven, feeling fatigued, she had turned aside from the road to sleep all night in the woods.

On Tuesday morning she died, with a miniature of her mother pressed to her lips. Yesterday her father reached Derby from his business trip, accompanied by Health Officer Louis D. Labonte, of Derby, who had gone to find him.

He was greatly distressed, and seemed to have it in his mind that Philomena's stepmother had not been unkind to her.

"She and her mother were like twin sisters," he said.

He took his daughter's body away to be buried in the family plot at New Hartford.

Kennedy

12 CORTLANDT ST.

Regular stocks are bigger and brighter than you can find anywhere else.

And then there are the bargains—

300 Pairs of Patent Leather, $2.19.

425 Pairs of Russel Lace, $2.19.

They are regular $3.50 quality. Wing Tip Oxfords, $4.98; Wing Tip Lace, $3.98. They're out of sight. Sold by custom bootmakers at $8.00.

An Expert's Discovery.

For several years a food expert experimented with a food, the aim being to produce one easy of digestion, that would contain more nutriment than meat.

Grape-Nuts is the result of this experimenting.

It is shown that one pound of Grape-Nuts contains more nutriment than ten pounds of beef, and that brain and body feel the effect of improved nourishment at once.

One cent a meal is the cost of Grape-Nuts.

Note! ORANGEINE

The Result of a Physician's Life